Art-Deco Parcel-Gilt Wrought-Iron Gates (Cir. 1925)
Provenance: Sotheby's New York: December 3-4 1999 Lot 278

During the late 19th century Europe, influences by the Arts and Crafts Movement, new style of building appeared when large amount of new supplies from iron, glass, tiles, to express the new decorative design for industrial products, known as the style of Art-Nouveau followed by Art-Déco. This work was created during the conversion of the two styles around 1925, hammered pattern is applied repeatedly to the overall frame of wrought iron, stylized leaves and floral pattern is applied in geometric symmetry, gazelle and archer are located in asymmetry. Its style and quality is close to the works from Paul Kiss, an artist who used many wrought iron during the 1920-30s.

VIVIEN CHAN SBS BBS JP
FOUNDER & CHAIRMAN OF V GROUP, DEVELOPER

Castle One by V is the latest in a collection of residential development by the V Group. As the developer of the fine collection of V serviced apartments, and the soon to complete four deluxe detached houses to be named “Mansions on the Peak by V” at 20 Peak Road, we are proud to raise contemporary city living to an unparalleled level of luxury and comfort.

PHILIP LIAO DESIGN ARCHITECT

Each building should have its own identity, character and soul...

It has been a wonderful journey to walk with Vivien through her first bespoke project from inception to completion. We are especially pleased that the warm and flowing Art deco design theme successfully carries from the iconic architecture, through to the charactered pool, and to the spirited interior spaces. There is a resonance of this consistent theme throughout the whole building...

RAYMOND CHAN INTERIOR DESIGNER

The design for the clubhouse and reception lobby takes its inspiration from the iconic 1920s antique gate from the owner's collection, reimagining what an Art Deco stately home might look like when it is used as a residence club.

The overall feeling is one of serenity and drama in one place, achieved by the clean lines and high contrast in the decoration. With the restrained use of color in the entire interior and outdoor, it's a bit like making a film noir, and you keep working on the right black & white! Enormous efforts have been paid to create and select different monochromatic shades through the use of patterns and textures, paying homage to the strong geometrical motifs from the Art Deco period.

THOMAS HO JP
CHIEF EXECUTIVE, GAMMON CONSTRUCTION LIMITED

Castle One by V arises as an iconic landmark in the Mid-Levels West. We are proud to be entrusted as the main contractor of this high profile residential project, thanks to the trust and support of our Client - The V Group.

We do not view our relationships only through the lens of a project but rather dedicate ourselves to our Client's overall success. We are glad that along the journey, all the project partners had been working seamlessly together to bring the contemporary concepts to reality. Most pleasingly, the project was successfully delivered on time with high quality.

We value meaningful collaboration and look forward to our next cooperation with The V Group.
